Caldwell played for three years on the Cornell team and inter coached several teams in Pennsylvania. He was at Cornell when the so-called "Cornell system" of play was first adopted, a system which he is following in his training instructions this year. In sining up the Eastern situation, he stated that Market. stated that Harvard's chance again against e this year clearly lay in playing a

"Princeton and Harvard are probably slightly lighter than they were last year. Even if Harvard gets some beavier men in her team, there is no chance that whe will be able to furnish a line able to successfully oppose that of Tale. Her policy, therefore, will clearly be to increase her speed.

"I think you will find this is made the feature of the game as between these two teams this season. Harvard has always paid great streetion to having fast and strong code. This point seems to be specialized this year even more than before. Her obvious idea is to develop a different style of play from that of Tale, and a style that will neutralize the weight in Tale's line, or close make this weight of no avail.
